PORTFOLIO 2023

About

Mariano Doronzo (b.1986) is an Italian photographer and darkroom practitioner.

In 2013, he moved to England to focus on his photography practice.

His visual research explores the notion of empathy and vital connection between the photographer and the subject, within a space where the reporter's sensibility is intertwined with a strong sense of aesthetics and fashion.

Surroundings and landscapes are as well as important for Mariano to creates stories that include symbolic elements in connection to the real, enriching the image with additional layers of meaning. Mariano works mainly analog photography while also expanding his skills in the Make It Easy Darkroom Lab in Nottingham from processing film to handmade traditional prints.

In 2022, he also completed an international long-term mentorship program at Magnum Photos with Matt Black and Susan Meiselas. He currently lives and works between Nottingham and Milan with the ability to move around the world.
